Worked with client to sign a letter signed by a long list of like-minded groups, and express support to House and Senate appropriators for full funding of the Second Chance Act in Fiscal Year 2012. These diverse organizations came together because they represent constituencies working to increase public safety by improving prisoner reentry from prisons, jails, and juvenile facilities across the country. The Second Chance Act, which passed with overwhelming bipartisan support and was signed into law in April 2008, is a common sense, evidence-based approach to reducing crime and improving public safety. The bill authorizes $165 million for programs that will improve coordination of reentry services and policies at the state, tribal, and local levels, including demonstration grants, reentry courts, family-centered programs, substance abuse treatment, employment, mentoring and other services needed to improve transition from prison and jail to communities and reduce recidivism.

Worked with client to sign a letter signed by a list of like-minded faith-based groups, and suggest to the Attorney General of the United States some ways that the Department of Justice can address the persistent and widespread confusion around the country regarding the voting rights of people with criminal histories. Across the country there is persistent confusion among election and criminal justice officials about their state's criminal disenfranchisement policies, which leads to the de facto disenfranchisement of untold hundreds of thousands of eligible would-be voters throughout the country. De facto disenfranchisement has devastating long-term effects in communities across the country and many of those affected are part of our faith communities.
